Elsevier Acquires bepress

BRUCE S.

February 2, 2017

Today, Elsevier has announced that it has acquired BePress, a leading provider of open access publishing services. This acquisition is a significant step for Elsevier in its efforts to expand its digital publishing portfolio and to provide more open access options for its authors and readers. BePress has a strong track record of providing high-quality, open access publishing services, and its acquisition by Elsevier will allow the company to leverage Elsevier's extensive resources and reach to provide even better services to its authors and readers.
